Since our beginnings, it has been a shared opinion in our group that the Malbec tradition is the core of Mendoza as a developing Terroir. Mendoza has two centuries of tradition in winemaking, and this history has produced a local know-how based on collective knowledge of this grape and its relation with the local environment. Mendoza wines have distinctive characteristics based on soil, topography, climate, landscape and biodiversity.

The unique Lost Buoy vineyards lie atop the rugged limestone cliffs of Port Willunga in the world-renowned McLaren Vale. The shoreline of Port Willunga is serene and beautiful, but in winter months can become a dark and treacherous landscape. Several great iconic ships in South Australia's history have ran aground or sank at the door step of the Lost Buoy vineyard, with some crew lost only meters from shore. The Lost Buoy vines, once too almost lost (to property developers), was born again when the local Kelley family stepped in to rescue the vines in November 2011. And so the Lost Buoy story begins...

In Santa Barbara wine country, it all started with Sanford. In 1971 Sanford Winery and Vineyards discovered an overlooked, grape-growing treasure in the Santa Rita Hills. Recognizing a magical combination of climate and soil conditions much like those in France's famed Burgundy province, Sanford planted the area's first Pinot Noir in its Sanford & Benedict vineyard. Pinot Noir has thrived in the Santa Rita Hills ever since, and so has Sanford Winery.
